I Am What I Have to Share

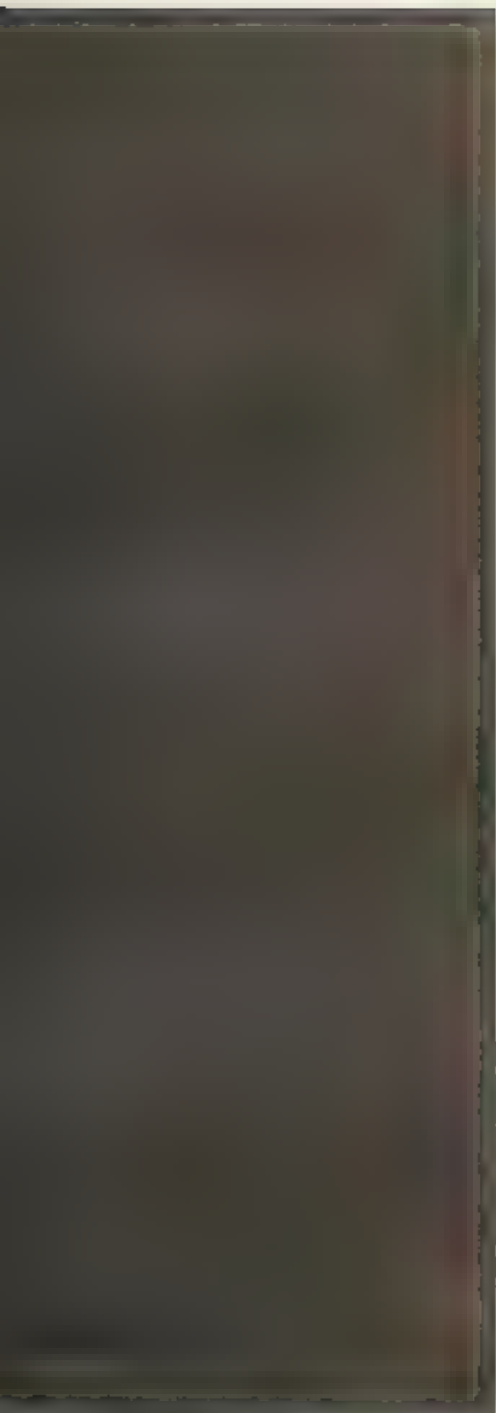

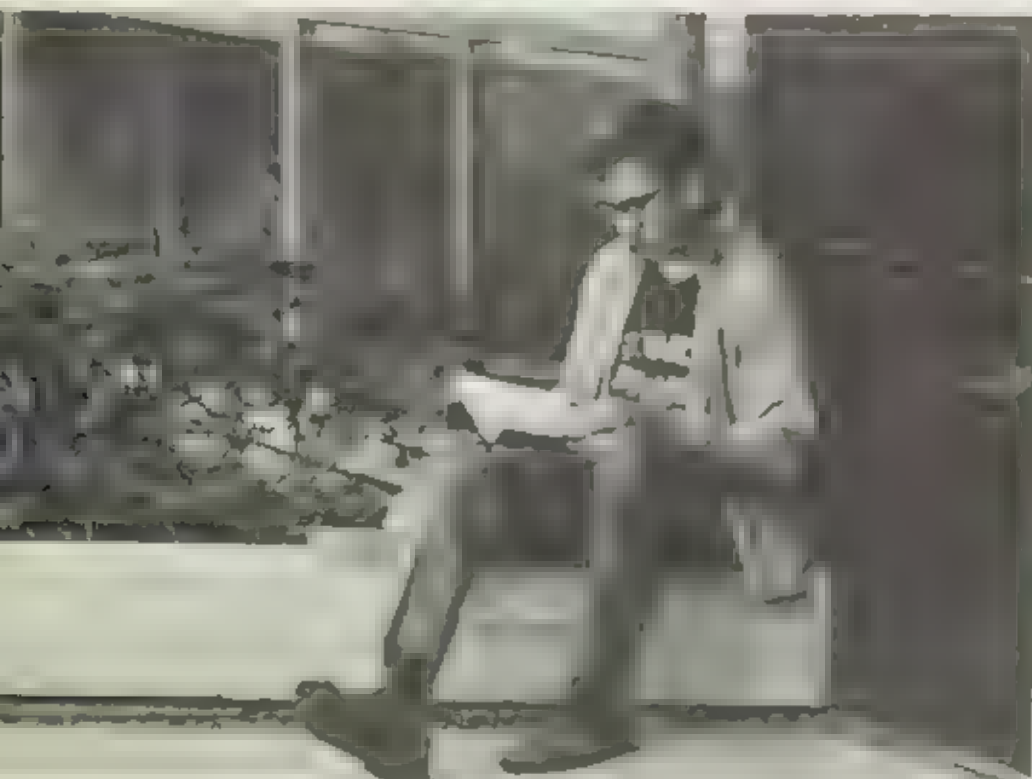

"A school is for learning." Indeed it is. Learning so many things, answering so many questions. Not questions on tests, or on your feet in class—but real questions, deep questions. Who am I? Where am I? Why am I here? Where do I go from here? It's the "I" that is common to all of them though, so I must be important. It's like being the center of your own private universe. It's hard to figure it out sometimes. You think, you reason, you wonder, you ask questions. You ask them of yourself though, and you try hard to come up with the answers

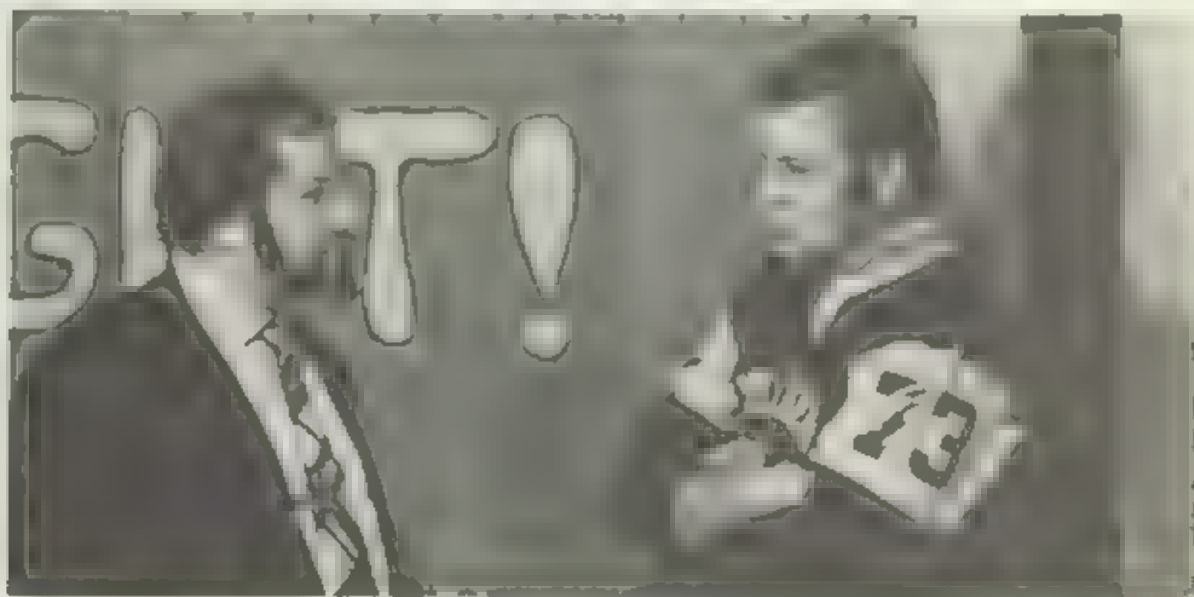

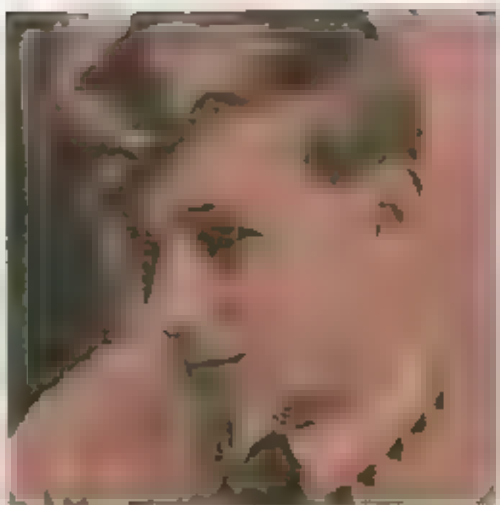

Somehow you know that even though "I" is the important word, it's always "I" in relation to something else. "No man is an island," you hear someone say, and it makes sense. You sense your aloneness, but you know that you can't remain alone forever. There are people all around you—and you wonder if they're thinking as you are

Many people help you find the answers. It's good to be able to have someone to talk to; someone to check with. You come to some conclusions—but you're not at all certain. You realize that people want to help you, but sometimes you're afraid. You begin to suspect though, that other people are as important as you are—that many "mes" make "we"—and we're all in this together

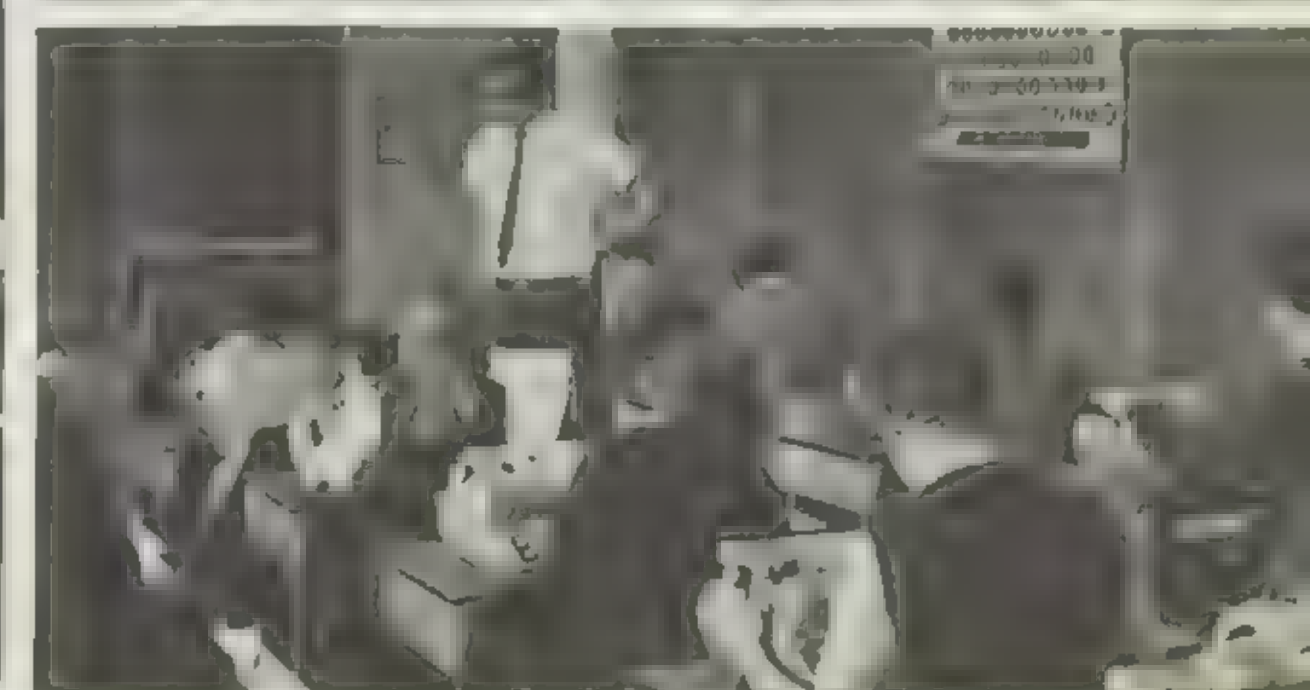

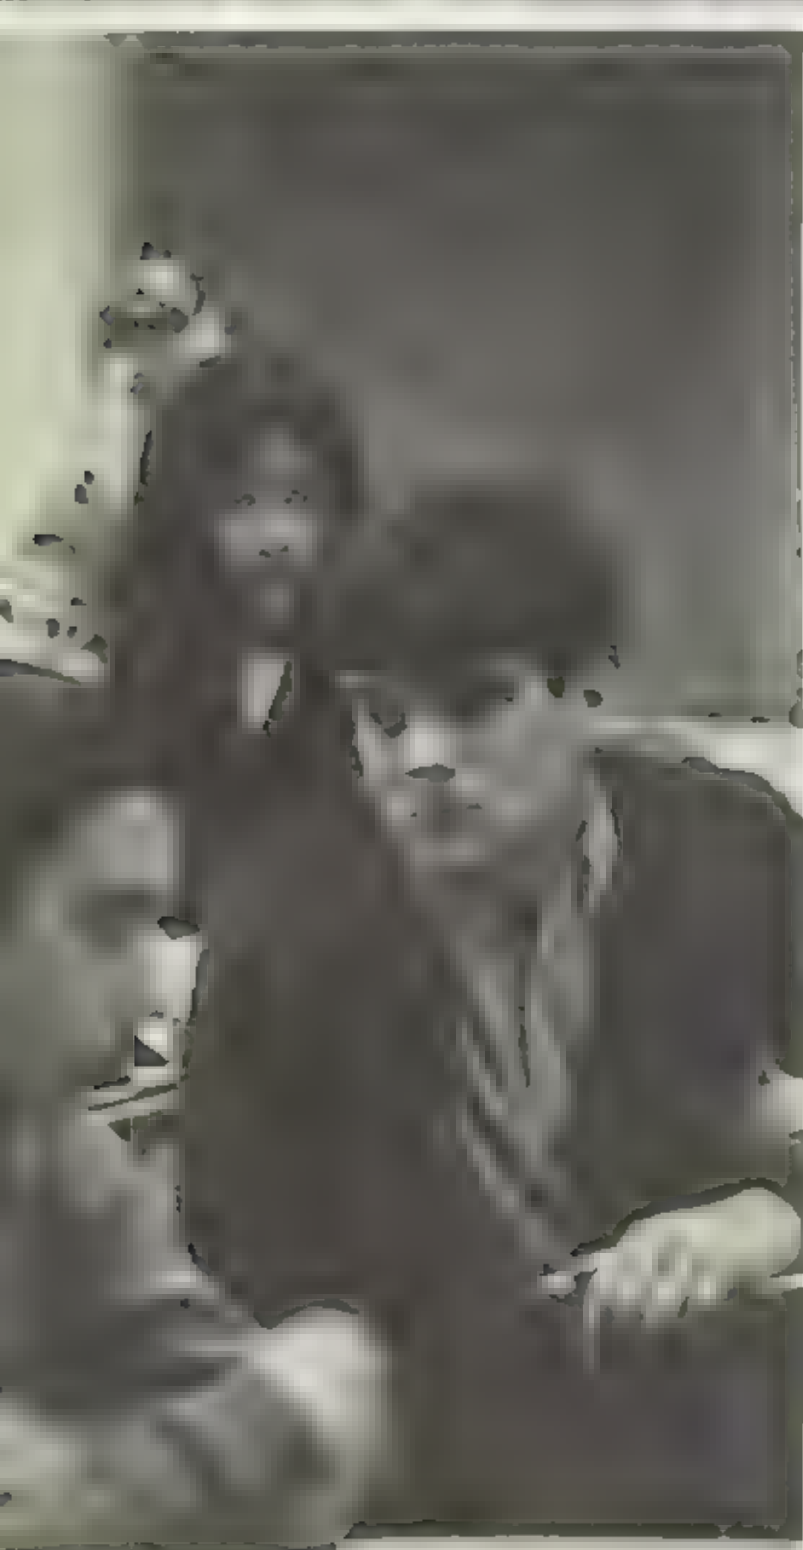

You listen a lot. It seems some times that your whole life is listening. But as you listen, as you think things out, you come to new conclusions, and you grow. You feel bigger today than you did yesterday because something is clearer. "I understand," you say, and take a giant step

1. The first group of people were the first to be seen by the police on the night of the murder.

You sense the value of what you are doing in terms of a larger world. You understand that even though your contribution seems small, it's part of a larger whole that couldn't accomplish its purpose without you. You see how individual efforts, be they ever so difficult or boring, are all a sharing of what is uniquely yours

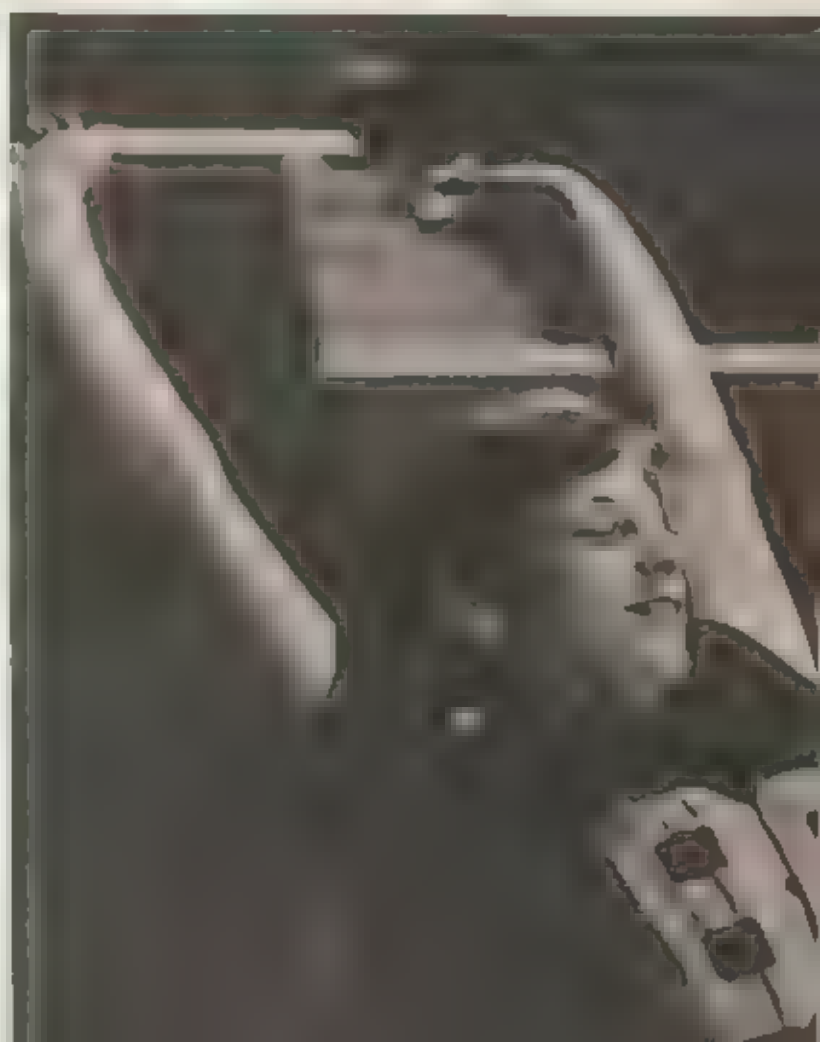

You know the great joy of working with someone else. You know what it means to share. You learn how others can benefit from what you have to give and how you can benefit from what they have to offer. What you give becomes so much more important than what you take. You are what you have to share

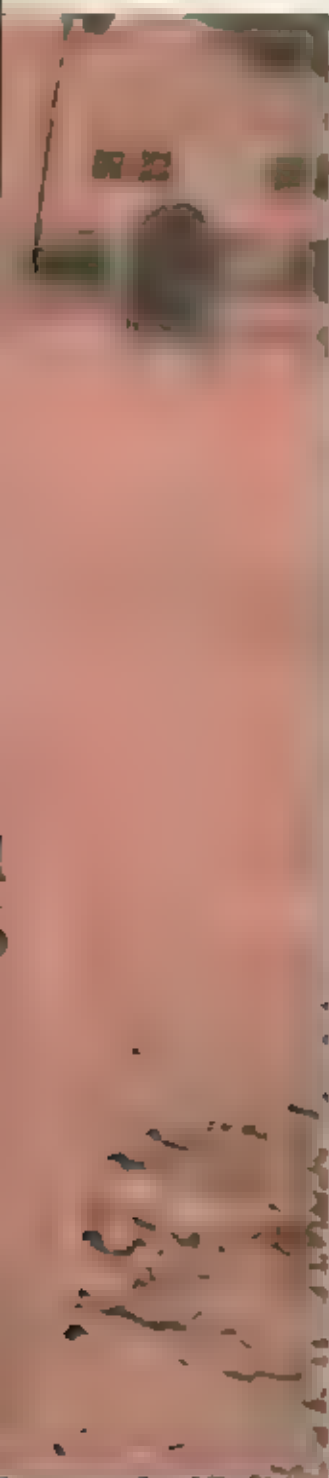

Sharing means giving, not your time and your talents only, but more than all, yourself. You begin to discover what it means to make people smile; to make someone happy. You realize that you have a lot to give, and that giving makes you happy too. Sharing with others makes you bigger, not smaller. You find, to your amazement, that what you have is never diminished when you share it with someone else.

As you grow, the world grows too, or so it seems. Everyday is wonderful every moment is precious. When people share common dreams and common goals, every small victory is cause for celebration. A job well done is a victory of spirit over unselfishness; proof positive of what many people sharing can bring to pass sorry that you didn't make it a member Dave,

 but we tried could luck
 next year.

Mary

Like all good things though, it comes to an end. An end here that is, because lessons are for life. Learning to share, learning to give myself, learning that others are worthy of the best I have to give—it could be the beginning of a new world, far better than the one we know, far better perhaps than any we have ever dreamed of! I am what I have to share

FOOTBALL

The loss of the first game of the season must have been a good omen for the varsity football Pioneers, since they went on to win their next two games by wide margins. The fact that those two games were against our ancient rivals, Washington and Little Flower, did much to lift our spirits and produce a winning season. To add to the general good feeling, we won our Homecoming Game against Kennedy as well. The final season tally found the Pioneers with a 6 and 3 record and the tri-championship of the Chicago Prep League. All in all it was a very good season

BASKETBALL

If ever a basketball season started slowly, it was the season of 1970-1971. It was the sixth game of the season before we entered the winning column. We had confidence though. We knew we had the coaches, the players and the spirit to see us to a winning season. When the Pioneers started rolling it was a thrilling season all the way. A 13 and 11 record made it a winning season indeed!

BASEBALL

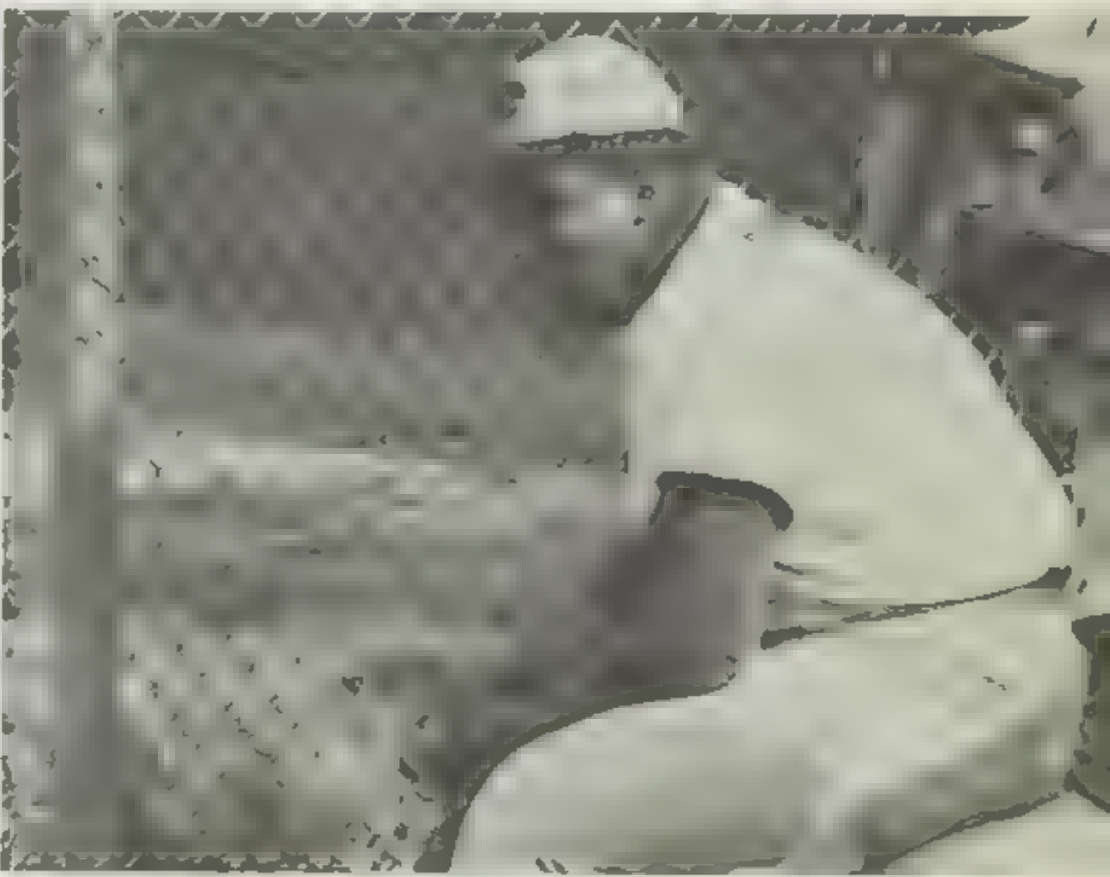

This year's baseball, as far as Mitre is concerned, is always future. The book goes to press before the season opens, and while we can print a picture of the team, we can give no record of performance. One thing though, is certain. Pioneer baseball teams have a tradition of winning. Last year's record of 28 and 10, is proof of that and promise too for the days ahead.

TRACK

Last season's Trackmen tried their best to overcome the crushing odds against them, above all others, the lack of members. Track at Francis seemed to be moving backward into oblivion. Inheriting the previous season's legacy of only one win, reduced morale to so low a point that the team was finally disbanded. This year, Francis' Trackmen will try again

CROSS COUNTRY

It took only three years for the Cross Country team to come up with its first winning season, and 1970 was the year! Under the guidance of a new coach, Mr. Ron Sieman, the Pioneer harriers marked up a 10-8 record. Without a doubt, the highlight of the season was the magnificent performance of Senior Tom Crowley. Next year, the Pioneer Cross Country men will be competing in the Suburban Catholic League. This year's winning season gives us something to really look forward to
